

Fluency in multiple languages allows individuals to communicate, which is especially valuable in sectors like international business, diplomacy, and tourism.

How can languages help you in your future career?

Speaking another language opens up a variety of career opportunities in the European Union across several sectors such as International Business Specialist, Translator/Interpreter, Diplomat, International Relations Officer, Government Official, Tourism and Hospitality Manager, Language Teacher, Marketing Specialist, Media Professional and many more.

How would you like to work for one of those companies ?

The North Face have branches across Europe and offer a range of jobs available to those who are able to speak languages fluently. In Germany alone jobs within the company such as sales assistants, project management and finance organization which are all high earning jobs full of experiences.

Apple offer jobs anywhere in Europe giving you the chance to live abroad whilst working an engaging job. The skill of knowing 2 or more languages can propel you into these experiences and enhance your life opportunities beyond the English coasts.